Editor's note — The commonest error in district writing is to read two months and call it a rise. We did exactly that in last month's memo. Laid out over 20 months, the answer was the opposite. This issue lays out 20 months.

Six districts, 20 months

Seongsu, Eulji-ro, Dosan, Sindang, Yonggridan-gil, Mullae. We tracked the six Seoul districts people name for drinking, from January 2025.

Only one went up.

Only one went up

Monthly counts of each district name appearing with drinking on Instagram, adjusted by ‘beer’ mentions over the same period (–4.5%).

JAN-AUG CHANGE · ADJUSTED BY BEER MENTIONS (%)

Five of the six fell. Only Eulji-ro rose, and it leads on volume too — 8,686 posts to August against Seongsu’s 4,490.

District	2025 share	2026 share
Eulji-ro	31.7%	41.0%
Seongsu-dong · Seongsu Stn.	24.6%	21.2%
Dosan · Apgujeong Rodeo	14.7%	10.7%
Yongridan-gil · Sinyongsan	9.7%	10.5%
Sindang · Yaksu	10.9%	8.3%
Mullae	8.4%	8.4%

IN ONE LINE

Four in ten mentions across the six districts we measured are Eulji-ro’s. In one year, 9.3pp moved to one district.

Why Eulji-ro

We pulled the top 100 words that appear when Eulji-ro is named alongside drinking. The answer was not ‘hip’ alone.

ALLEYS

Hipjiro 677

Jongno 458

Chungmuro 228

Alley 155

OUTDOOR SEATS

Terrace 231

Show 220

Live 218

Rooftop 172

OLD-SHOP FOOD

Broth 310

Whelk 245

Squid 189

Chicken 186

The three clusters point one way: alleys + outdoor seats + old-shop food. That is exactly the yajang condition we covered last issue. Eulji-ro always had its beer alleys and street benches, and of the six districts we measured this year, only the one with that axis grew.

The list also carries company dinner 204 and new opening 179 — a sign that group bookings and new-venue enquiries are still live here. Frequency alone does not settle scale.

This is not a call to move district. Eulji-ro’s axis — alleys, outdoor seats, broth dishes — can be built in Seongsu or in Gangnam too. What this issue points to is not an address but an axis.

FOR OPERATORS

① Decide first whether your axis is ‘polished’ or ‘alley’ — the one growing is the alley. ② Outdoor seats + beer and soju + a broth dish is the surest demand; premium sits on top. ③ The week after the break (from 9/28) comes back above normal — do not leave that order empty.

Chuseok D-9: six days left

Chuseok falls on Friday 25 September; the break runs four days, Thursday the 24th to Sunday the 27th. The last delivery before it is Wednesday 23 September — six trading days from the day this report goes out.

Date	What to do
Wed 9/16 · today	Fix holiday volumes · split out chilled items
Thu 9/17–Fri 9/18	Recommended first order cutoff
Sat 9/19–Sun 9/20	Last weekend before the break · measure turnover
Mon 9/21	Final order cutoff · split delivery ①
Tue 9/22	Split delivery ②
Wed 9/23	Last delivery before the break
9/24–9/27	Distribution closed · on-call cover
Mon 9/28	Deliveries resume · back to normal

TAKE IT IN TWO LOADS

What changes is not the items but the timing. It piles up before the break, halves in the holiday week, and returns to normal the week after. Do not take it all on 9/23 — split it across 9/21–23, and book the 9/28 restart separately. Draft kegs in particular stop turning over the four closed days.

Delivery dates around the October Foundation Day and Hangul Day holidays will be confirmed individually by your sales manager.

Four days only defer it

Week before the break 164, holiday week 45. And the week after, 111.

The rush lands on the last day

Our own data this time: Sewang shipments to accounts, restaurants and bars only. Normal week = 100.

Last year Chuseok ran into two October holidays and stopped deliveries for ten days. This year it is four. So we set it beside this year’s Lunar New Year, a five-day stop.

Week	Seollal · 5 days	Last Chuseok · 10 days
2 weeks before	118	—
Week before	164	169
Holiday week	45	43
Week after	111	86
2–3 weeks after	105–110	86–90

A SHORT BREAK ONLY DEFERS

At Seollal the week after came straight back to 111. The ten-day Chuseok held three weeks at 86–90. Leave the week-after order empty and there is nothing to meet it.

That week by weekday (normal = 100): Mon 109 · Tue 149 · Wed 220 · Thu 170 · Fri 167 — the multiple peaks Wednesday, the volume Friday, the last day open. Only 9/23 is left: all of it in 9/21–23.

WHISKY AND GIFTS

Week-before surge: traditional 182 · beer 165 · soju 164 · draft 158 · sake 151. Whisky and spirits: 145, below the 159 average — gift demand does not reach on-premise orders.

Three questions: axis • order • after

Q1 YOUR AXIS

What grew this year is not ‘polished’ but ‘alley’ — outdoor seats, broth dishes, beer and soju. Which side is your menu on?

Q2 DID YOU SPLIT THE ORDER

The week before the break runs at 164 of normal, the holiday week at 45. Take it all on the last delivery day and the store room bursts. Did you split it across 9/21, 22 and 23?

Q3 THE WEEK AFTER

A four-day break defers demand rather than removing it. Measured, the week after ran at 111 of normal. Have you left 9/28–10/2 empty?

Item	9/16–9/23	9/28–Oct
Beer • soju	Increase	Increase
Traditional • fruit liquor	Increase	Hold
Draft beer kegs	Split around break	Increase
Whisky • spirits	Hold	Hold
Sake • cheongju	Hold	Increase
Broth-dish stock	Hold	Increase

Your sales manager will propose a mix sized to your venue and district.

Yajang opened as forecast

Last issue we wrote that the yajang season opens from the second week of September, because that is what last year's curve did.

Measured, yajang mentions rose from the summer low (703 in the first week of August) to 1,205 in the first week of September, up 71%. The direction is as forecast — though the climb had already begun in mid-August.

One honest caveat. The last two weeks are still incomplete on the platform, so the confirmed share-versus-beer figure returns next issue. On absolute mentions alone the direction is clear.

WEEKS REMAINING

The Golden Zone runs to the last week of October. Counting this week, that is seven weeks, with six still to go. The lines that turn on outdoor seats — draft kegs, bottled beer, soju — stay raised throughout. The turn is the first week of November.
